'PORTABLE' FOR DAY CARE CENTER

Jefferson Elementary School District workers last week erected a "portable" building to house a day care center for the Daly City Community for Children's Services at the George Washington School on Whittier at Lowell. The City of Daly City project has prompted some parental opposition. The parents say they are opposed to siting the building on the school grounds in the first place, and now that it is there, object even more to where it was set up.

According to Ray Ogden, JESD's buildings and grounds chief, the 32'x40' building originally was to be PUT in the northeast corner (upper right), but the Board of Trustees authorized a change in location. In its present position, with a slight re-location of the softball backstop in foreground, all four diamonds will be usuable, Ogden said, and "is the best place for it."

No 'Gag' in Colma Voter Fraud Case

Following a secret, in-chambers hearing, a judge denied motions to seal the grand jury transcript in the Ottoboni fraud case.

Superior Court Judge Frank Piombo also denied a motion seeking a "gag" order in the case involving Colma City Councilman Raymond D. Ottoboni, 71, his wife, Mae, 69, and their son, Raymond J. Ottoboni, 34.

However, Judge Piombo extended until March 24 the date to publicly reveal the transcript in order to give time for defense attorneys Zerne P. Haning III and Lois Scampini to appeal his decision.

The Ottobonis were indicted last month on an allegation involving a scheme to falsely register four persons in Colma so that they would vote in last Tuesday's municipal election for the junior Ottoboni.

The young Ottoboni is a former Colma police chief and former member of the city council. He lost by one vote in his bid to be returned t the council.

The secret hearing was sought by Haning and Miss Scampini.

The district attorney's office, represented by Stanley B. Poling, offered no opposition, so Judge Piombo conducted the session privately in his chambers.

It's 'Musical Chairs' In Daly City, Colma

The annual game of "musical chairs" was played by city councils around the North County Tuesday following last week's municipal elections.

In Daly City, it was expected Anthony A. "Tony" Giammona, a nine-year-veteran of the council, would be named mayor. Newly-elected councilman Al Teglia was expected to be named vice mayor, according to city hall watchers.

Giammona topped the list of eight candidates running for two seats on the council with 3693, with Teglia running a close second, receiving 3,350 votes.

Following tradition, Mayor Victor Kyriakis, will turn over the gavel of office to his successor after swearing-in ceremonies Tuesday at the City Hall.

City Clerk Anna Ohlendorf and City Treasurer Tony Zidich also will be sworn in. Although both ran unopposed, they received

What Makes Arrested Tick?

By FRANK LaPIERRE
(Third of Four Parts)

Before the courts hand down a sentence to a person for commission of a crime, the County Probation Department usually investigates that person's background — literally everything that might influence his or her behavior in prison and after release.

Many judges base sentence duration and conditions of probation on what these investigators tell them.

In San Mateo County, Frank Druhan and Don Helbush, the county's top probation officers, disagree with critics who say criminals are being released almost as fast as they are arrested by police.

"I don't see the police on one side of the coin, and us on the other," Druhan says.

There are 58 counties in California.

Both men say they can speak only for San Mateo County. It's a county, they note, which has one of the lowest crime rates in the state.

San Mateo County is one of the very few areas in the nation that can make the boast. In other urban areas, crime is skyrocketing.

The probation officers try to find out what makes a person arrested and convicted of a crime tick.

They try to analyze the criminal in an effort to "redirect" him to a more productive life after release from prison — if he is sent to "the joint" in the first place.

It well may be that the person being investigated would not benefit at all from incarceration, the officials explain.

There is a lot of sparring between a person convicted of crime and a probation officer, much as there is with an ex-convict and his parole officer, Helbush explains.

"Man is a creature of habit. We must turn around this habit and we can only do this through a sort of mutual trust in each other," Helbush says.

A lot of time is spent breaking down barriers between the two and getting to the heart of the problem affecting the man, Helbush says.

"Yet we are not naive enough to believe we can change everybody," he points out.

Probation is a contract between the defendant and the judge.

"It's kind of like buying a car. You agree to pay $300 a month for, say, two years. The defendant agrees to pay his contract with time. If he breaks the contract, he could go to prison to serve his sentence," Helbush says.

The rules of the system today often give the defendant an opportunity to take his case down numerous judicial corridors.

This causes trials to drag on and sends taxpayers' costs soaring.

There is one way to prevent this, according to Helbush.

"Suspend all civil liberties and have a police state. You will agree, no one wants that," he says.

Druhan thinks there is a risk every time a person is released on probation.

Punishment must be equated with incarceration, Helbush feels.

While fines and probation may be appropriate in some cases, they would have little effect on the defendant in another case, Helbush believes.

One thing most people in law enforcement circles agree on: Probation and parole is less costly than incarceration.

Prisons cost (in 1975 dollars) about $35,000 per cell unit to construct.

There are now 20,028 inmates inside correctional facilities in California, and 19,789 convicts on parole. The cost of incarceration is $7,829 per person per year, while only $988 is required to provide administration of the statewide parole program.

These costs include all administrative expenses — food, clothing, lighting and other items

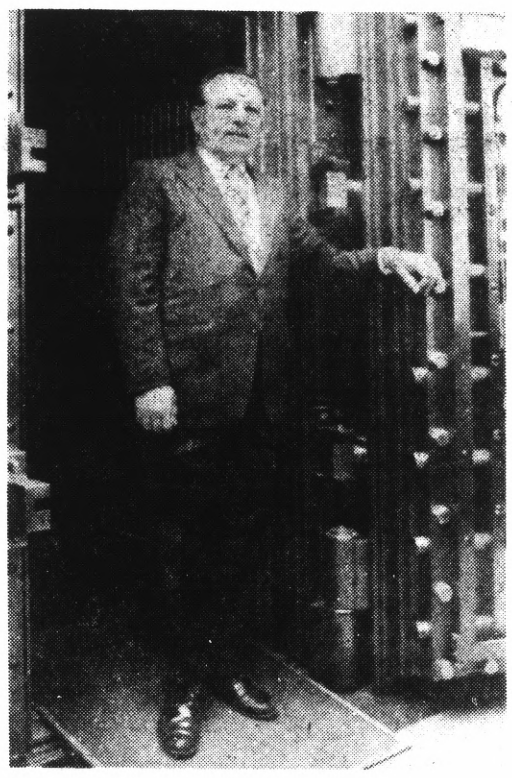
THE POST

Vo. 30, No. 10 DELIVERED EVERY WEDNESDAY MORNING WEDNESDAY, MARCH 10, 1976



NOW A UNIVERSITY

Victor Brincat, president of the Magna Carta Law University in South San Francisco, checks one of the more unusual features of the "campus" of the university he founded — once the old Crocker Bank at Linden and Grand Avenues.

Wide-Ranging Investor

By JANET PARKER

It's a safe bet that Victor Brincat's most recent investment won't be his last.

Brincat is president and founder of Magna Carta Law University in South San Francisco, an investment that's growing to three campuses, a bank, a banking school and possibly an accounting school.

The 55-year-old native of Malta said experience has taught him the investment business. Commercial real estate investments throughout the state are his means of survival.

The university and its offshoots, he said, are sidelines to fill in the spare time when he isn't signing papers to buy new properties or sell old ones.

"We feel right now we have a good, solid, reputable school," said Brincat about the law college which was established as a non-profit corporation in December, 1974.

It's obvious, however, that the quiet-spoken Brincat won't settle for a single college as his sideline investment.

His 25 years in the United States have taken him from one business venture to another.

An auto mechanic by trade, he came to this country for a vacation and never went home. He borrowed money to buy a Nash automobile dealership in San Bruno and eventually purchased additional dealerships in San Francisco and Daly City.

He sold them, however, and went into importing motorcycle parts. Shortly after that he began dabbling in real estate.

For three years Brincat attended a San Francisco law school but he abandoned that interest a year before graduation to spend more time in business. His law studies led to his founding of the now disbanded San Bruno Law Center, an office complex for young attorneys.

He soon bought one of South San Francisco's oldest and largest buildings, the old Crocker Bank at Linden and Grand avenues, built in 1918. Since December, 1974, the busiest intersection in the city has been the site of the law college.

Although the university is headed by a board of directors, Brincat insists the decisions are all his own.

"I'm the idea man," said Brincat.

The university's sole purpose is, he said, to provide a needed service. It is not intended to make money.

"We're out to produce people who can be employed," Brincat said. A law university aimed at the part-time student was needed in this area, he said, so he filled that need.

Brincat opened a second campus in San Jose in January and is negotiating for a third campus in Las Vegas. If the deal is completed it will be the only law school in Nevada.

A conspicuous reminder of the building's former use — a bank vault with its door thrust open — remains in the university law library. And Brincat hasn't bothered to remove counters where patrons once filled out deposit and withdrawal slips.

Why? Because "the ideaman" plans to turn the whole building into a bank

New 380 Vote Seen on Coast

At least one Pacifica council member may ask that the City Council take a new stand opposing extension of Route 380 from San Bruno to the Coast Highway.

Anti-380 Councilman Sidney Lorvan said a new vote by the City Council is possible.

The voters rejected the issue 3,549 to 3,239 in the March 2 election. But they also elected anti-380 Councilman Mark Savage, swinging the council from a 3-2 majority favoring the extension to a 3-2 majority opposing it. Thus, the voters and the council majority are at odds regarding the controversial proposal.

Although the Pacifica City Council has no direct vote in the freeway construction plans, it can exert influence on the Metropolitan Transportation Commission (MTC).

"I am sure there will be a re-evaluation of the council's position on 380," Lorvan said.

Lorvan and Janice Fulford make up the council's anti-380 faction. Mayor Stan Farber, Aubrey Lumley and Grace McCarthy have supported the freeway extension forming the pro-380 majority.

However, Lumley and Mrs. McCarthy have been replaced by 380-supporter Nick Gust and 380-opponent Mark Savage.

Lorvan said he doesn't see the Proposition A vote as a clear statement of voter sentiment.

HE SAID AT the very minimum there probably will be a proposal that the City Council reject the freeway design of the California Department of Transportation (CalTrans).

"The proposition was obscured because of technical questions," Lorvan said. Many voters didn't really understand what their vote meant, he said.

The proposition vote, he said, clearly divided the city. Fifty-eight per cent of those precincts north of and including the Vallemar area voted "no" and fifty-nine per cent of the voters in precincts in Linda Mar and Park Pacifica to the south voted "yes".

Lorvan said he will, at the very least, encourage the council to take some official stand in support of better access to Linda Mar

Mother Testifies in Baby Slaying Trial

"Charles was stabbing my baby."

Alma Elaine Ayala, 19, testifying in a quiet voice from a wheelchair, told a Superior Court jury of six men and six women in Redwood City Monday that it was her boyfriend, Charles C. Lawrence, who killed her 7-month-old son, Carlos, and severely beat her last Nov. 28 in their Daly City apartment.

Lawrence is charged with murder and assault with a deadly weapon.

Miss Ayala, who suffered numerous skull fractures resulting in the removal of one-fourth of her skull, described how she had awakened in the bedroom after hearing her baby cry. She got the child and took him into her bedroom, she said, then went to a closet to get a diaper.

When she returned to the bedroom, Miss Ayala testified, "Charles was stabbing my baby."

The witness, speaking at times in a barely audible voice, even with the assistance of a speaker system, said that Lawrence was stabbing the baby with a screwdriver.

"I pushed him (Lawrence) — I went to the front door to try to get help . . . he hit me," Miss Ayala said.

Miss Ayala stated that, "He hit me with a gun."

When she awakened the next day, the woman said, Lawrence was there and said something about a person named "Frank Jones."

"Do you recall him (Lawrence) hitting the baby with a hammer?" asked Prosecutor John P. Oakes.

"Yes," Miss Ayala replied.

Defense attorney Thomas F. Nolan attacked the discrepancy between Miss Ayala's testimony Monday and her statements at a preliminary hearing held at Mary's Help Hospital, where she was being treated for her injuries.

"Do you remember saying (at the preliminary hearing) it was Detective (Dennis) Prator who told you Charles killed the baby?" Nolan asked.

Miss Ayala said she didn't recall.

"Is it your testimony now that Detective Prator never told you Charles killed the baby?" Nolan inquired.

"Yes," the witness replied.

Miss Ayala, in reply to questioning by the defense attorney, stated that she did not recall what she and Prator talked about, nor how many times she had talked to the detective.

"Do you remember telling Detective Prator you got hit by a truck?" Nolan asked.

"No."

Persisting in his contention that Miss Ayala's recall of the slaying stems from what Prator told her, the defense attorney asked, "If he told you Charles killed the baby would you believe him?"

"No," Miss Ayala responded. "I saw what happened, he didn't."

In response to questions by Oakes, Miss Ayala testified that she was in the hospital and under medication when she gave testimony in the preliminary hearing.

The trial, before Judge Gerald E. Ragan, was in its fourth day Monday.

Council of Cities Honors Those Leaving

Aubrey Lumley, a casualty in Tuesday's municipal election in Pacifica, resigned his post as chairman of the North San Mateo County Council of Cities during its meeting in Brisbane Thursday.

Lumley had earlier resigned from the San Mateo County Transit District . . . which he had served as vice chairman since its inception more than a year ago.

Because of his defeat at the polls, Lumley also was forced to resign from several other regional and district posts, including the County Criminal Justice Council.

Lumley chaired Thursday's meeting of the NCCC until certificates of appreciation were handed out to former members, some of whom were also defeated in this week's elections.

He asked the membership to replace him with Pacifica Mayor Stan Farber, who was thereupon unanimously elected to the post.

Others receiving recognition for efforts on behalf of the NCCC were Warren Steinkamp and Frank Mammini (South San Francisco); Paul Hupt (Daly City); Wallace Honeywell and Albert Belli (Colma); and Grace McCarthy (Pacifica).

Lumley's only comment after turning over the gavel to Farber was: "Anytime you have a chance to get involved, you should take it."

TOWNS AND CITIES, counties and states have been asked to make "1976! A year to remember in our nation's history — a time of celebration . . . a time of achievement." With this charge in mind each city in San Mateo County has formed bicentennial committees and from these groups selected a representative to the County American Bicentennial Committee.

One of the primary tasks of the county committee has been the recognition of events that are planned by the various cities. The committee encourages such activities as "sister city" projects, a heritage arts display at the County Fair, parades, festivals, concerts, contests and displays.

As a result, the citizens of all the cities in San Mateo County are enjoying outstanding programs. One of these was Daily City's Festival of Religious Freedom at which the choirs of eight religious denominations united to sing both sacred and patriotic music.

The choirs ranged from nine persons in one group to over forty in another. Each choir sang at least two numbers perculiar to its faith and then united with the other choirs to sing "The Star Spangled Banner," "This Land Is Your Land," "America the Beautiful" and "Peace Be to You."

THE EVENT WAS so successful the choir members resolved "to do it again every year." One who heard the concert said it reminded him that the original settlers of many American states were people who believed Jesus' statement that "The Kingdom of God Is Within You."

The County Bicentennial Committee is directed by Supervisor Edward Bacciocco with Natalie Lanam as co-chairperson. Carole Whitehill is the administrative coordinator. One of the committee's functions is to review the plans for projects and after reviewing grant "Official Recognition" to those that become countywide bicentennial events.

Such a project was the creation of a "History California Style" bus. The bus was created by a senior citizens group that meets in a facility known as "Little House" in Menlo Park. The senior citizens remodeled and repaired an old school bus so it could house a museum on wheels. Then, they invited the San Mateo County Historical Association to provide a "history of the people display."

WHEN THE BUS was finished and the display added, the "Little House" group held a dedication service with their own chorus furnishing the program. There were thirty or so persons who had attained their sixth, seventh and eighth decades singing of the glories of their country with all their might. Their performance was so outstanding it intrigued a group of Girl Scouts that had gone to see the history bus. The bus is touring the schools of the county.

Such projects that have been endorsed by the San Mateo County Bicentennial Committee and those that are encouraged by the Committee although not officially endorsed may be seen in every city in San Mateo County.

Truly, they are making 1976 a year to remember and San Mateo County a collection of cities upon a hill.

Sailing Ships are Exhibited at Periwinkle Gallery

The watercolors and acrylics of Mark Richard Myers will be displayed at the Periwinkle Art Gallery, 1227 Danman Ave., Pacifica from March 12 through April 18.

A San Matean, Myers was graduated from Pomona College with a degree with honors in maritime history. His paintings include many sailing ships, especially replicas of those used in the American Revolutionary War.

Myers first went to sea under Captain Alan Villiers in the brigantine Grethe and bark Wandia. Both were involved in the motion picture Hawaii on locaton in the Hawaiian Islands in 1965.

The following year Myers sailed on the steel gaff-rigged schooner Te Vega which was used for Oceanographic Research Work by the Hopkins Marine Institute of Monterey, a graduate school of Stanford University. The ship journeyed up and down the coasts of California and Mexico.

In 1968 Myers joined the replica 17th century ketch "Nonsuch" built in Appledore, Devon, England for the Hudson's Bay Company.

After helping to rig her, he served in the ship as boatswain and acting mate for two years, taking her around the coasts of England and France and finally to Canada. His next job was as a rigger in the "Golden Hinde" getting her ready for sea at Appledore in 1973.

Myers says, "My beginnings as an artist were a lifelong interest in and study of sailing ships. Although I have had no formal art training, my experiences at sea and research into the era of sail have made the past so come alive that I naturally wanted to paint it.

My first one-man show was held with the San Francisco Maritime Museum in 1967. Since then I've had eight others with the Museum, Periwinkle Gallery and galleries in England where I moved in 1971."

In addition to regular shows, Myers has done numerous commissioned paintings for individuals and institutions. He has written and illustrated articles, has produced jacket paintings for a number of works on the sea including many by Captain Alan Villiers.

In 1974, Myers was commissioned to paint the Royal Navy's Round-the-World Yacht Race entry "Adventure" for the International Association of Cape Horners.

Instructional Television 'Has Come Long Way'

By ARVILLE FINCOM
Correspondent

"Instructional Television has come a long way since its early, low budget, teacher-at-a-blackboard beginnings," commented Avon Kirkland, Channel 9 representative, to a group of Bay Area PTA leaders at a recent meeting of Reviewing Stand/North, the multi-district, mass media committee of the California State PTA.

"As people in and out of media began to realize the teaching potential of the medium," Kirkland continued, "The budget for Instructional TV increased and quality of programming improved."

Susan Lynch, the Channel 9 representative responsible for planning and conducting in-school workshops in the use of Instructional TV, underscored Kirkland's comments by explaining the kinds of programming currently provided by KQED. Eighteen shows are offered weekly, most at two or three different times, dealing with both intellectual and emotional development.

SOME ARE designed primarily to improve cognitive skills, such as Math Factory for fourth graders (seen Monday at 10:45 a.m., Tuesday at 1:45 p.m. and Wednesday at 11:30 a.m.)

Others, such as Inside Out (Monday at 11:15 a.m., Tuesday at 10:30 a.m., Wednesday at 1 p.m. and Thursday at 1:30 p.m.), deal specifically with feelings.

This series is described in KQED materials: "To help children achieve and maintain well-being both physically and emotionally . . . through the presentation of situations common to their own lives."

Some programs blend cognitive and affective learnings. A color segment of vegetable soup (Monday at 1:45 p.m., Tuesday at 1:15 p.m. and Friday at 1:15 p.m.) was shown to the group to illustrate the way cognitive learningn—how to cook a rice dish, how early settlers lived — was combined with a portion dealing with why some Japanese remove their shoes at home. According to Ms. Lynch an interesting offshoot of the Vegetable Soup series has been the increased awareness among minority groups of why certain actions and customs are a part of their own heritage.

Another popular series is Bread and Butterflies (Monday at 1 p.m., Tuesday at 10:45 a.m., Wednesday at 1:45 p.m. and Thursday at 11 a.m.), which helps fourth through sixth graders take a long look at a variety of careers and work options open to them as they grow up. High school counselors agree that such an exploratory approach to "career education" in the elementary grades is most desirable.

MS. LYNCH EXPLAINED that the traditional ITV areas of social studies, language arts, science, art and music, have been joined in recent years by multi-cultural experiences and, this year, by two programs designed to fit in with the bicentennial. Truly American (Tuesday at 11:20 a.m. and Thursday at 11:15 a.m.) deals with highlights in the lives of outstanding Americans. Film of the Week (Mondays at 11:30 a.m., Thursdays at 1 p.m. and Fridays at 1:30 p.m.) is designed to encourage bicentennial reminiscence and activity.

Sesame Street and Electric Company are aired by KQED at in-school as well as late afternoon hours, in order to encourage parents to watch with their children.

Ms. Lynch, a former teacher, emphasized that KQED doesn't think it is enough to merely produce good instructional TV. The station also takes most seriously its task of training teachers and parents in the effective use of the medium. "Any TV program needs to 'fit in'," Ms. Lynch said.

"It needs to be appropriately introduced and effectively followed up."

KQED provides free materials to member districts to help teachers do such "introduction" and "follow-up".

For a school district to become a member of KQED and receive the services offered by the station, in addition to its TV programs, the amount of $1.25 per year for every pupil in a given school district is charged.

Districts are entitled, upon application, to a rebate of 50 cents per pupil from the state for such ITV services. Kirkland pointed out, interestingly enough, that California is the only state which does not pick up all the costs of instructional television for its public schools.

Both Ms. Lynch and Kirkland urged PTA leaders to study ITV by watching Channel 9 programs in their homes and then to encourage school districts to provide for the services in their budgets. A list of member school districts was distributed.

Only seven, out of San Mateo County's 24 have KQED membership as a current budget item.

MARVIN MORGANTI, assistant superintendent for the Laguna Salada Schools, said he sees ITV as another very powerful instrument of education. He stressed the word "another" and adds that ITV must be used as part of the total classroom program, not as a separate entity.

According to Morganti, the K-6 teacher that can tune in once a week to something the class is studying has a definite advantage. He continued, "Even though Lagunda Salada is a low wealth district, the KQED contract has always been maintained." Teachers in LSESD consider the preparation and follow-up material provided by Channdl 9 as an aid to intelligent viewing as well as an adjunct to total subject planning.

The South San Francisco, San Bruno Park and Millbrae school districts do not participate officially, although it is possible that some teachers in each are using some of the programs with their classes.

Mae Evans, elementary cirriculum specialist for the South San Francisco Unified School District, was careful to point out that removal of ITV from the school district budget was not done as a budget "cut." Rather, Ms. Evans explained, ITV has not been used for some five years in that school district because teachers expressed little interest in it as an in-school experience.

She went on to say that she feels sure that teachers are aware of the kinds of programs available and would have requested a return to its funding if they had been able to fit it into their classroom activity schedule.

MARTIN TUNICK, coordinator of curricular services for the San Bruno Park Elementary School District said it was purely for financial reasons that ITV has been cut from the budget for the coming year.

"Our teachers have been prepared, are trained to use ITV," he said. "It is with the greatest reluctance that we cut these services."

Strict Interpretation of Prop. 9 'Becomes Absurd'

By FRANK LaPIERRE

Pacifica City Attorney Gloria B. Scheid told elected officials from North County cities Thursday that strict interpretation of Proposition 9 cannot be made "because it becomes an absurdity."

The attorney was addressing a meeting of the North San Mateo County Council of Cities in Brisbane, explaining aspects of the conflict of interest and disclosure laws pertaining to government officials.

She pointed out several inconsistencies in the laws, noting that "it is not clear what a 'material interest' is."

The difficulty of Proposition 9 is knowing where the boundaries area, Miss Scheid said.

She cited the case of Pacifica Councilwoman Grace McCarthy, who is now being charged with a conflict of interest because she owns property in line with the proposed routing of Highway 380.

When an official alters a property in such a way that he might benefit financially, he could very well be in conflict, she explained.

But in the final analysis, any official who suspects he or she may be violating conflict or disclosure laws should consult the city attorney, she said.

In other action, the council:

• Opposed SB 1500 as written (Court Consolidation Bill). Daly City councilman McRobert Stewart said he thinks it is better if fines and bail forfeitures go to the cities where they are collected.

The bill would have the money go into a general fund to be dispersed to cities on a per capita basis. Stewart said police might not be as diligent about giving tickets if the money does not return to their areas.

• Favored continuation of the city revenue sharing program legislation.

• Opposed a proposed Senate Bill dealing with the so-called "burglar protection law," which outlines specific incidents when a person whose home is being robbed may and may not shoot a burglar.

• Supported unanimously Sen. Alan Cranston's bill (SB 1174) to provide funds for earthquake prediction studies.

• Approved a watered-down resolution originating in Brisbane concerning use of state monies for the purchase of a park on San Bruno Mountain.

Brisbane Mayor Art Montenegro asked the council to approve spending a $4 million park fund for purchase of the "saddle area" of the mountain — considered the very heart of the Visitacion Associates development.

A request that the council indicate its support of SB 1455 (Sen. Arlen Gregorio), which deals with the expenditure of $4 million specifically for purchase of the "saddle area," was turned down.

San Mateo Mayor Jane Baker said she did not like to vote "on something I haven't seen."

Other council members reacted in much the same way, pointing out they had not had time to properly evaluate Gregorio's bill.

It was not expected Gregorio's bill will be acted upon until after the County Board of Supervisors makes its decision on whether to allow a development on the mountain, or overturn their Planning Commission's recommendation and reject it.

San Mateo Councilman Jack Murray said he feared that the issue before the NCCC was aimed at destroying the development before the supervisors had a chance to act on it.

But members opposed the idea and recommended instead that the state be asked to spend the money on the mountain park — without reference to a specific area.

"I cannot support such an action," Murray said.

Proposal To Merge Offices

A recommendation will be forthcoming "very shortly" for the consolidation of the San Mateo County Coroner-Public Administrator Office facilities at a single location, County Manager M.D. Tarshes reported to the Board of Supervisors this week.

Tarshes made the comment as the board received and authorized implementation of recommendations from the Citizens Task Force on County Government Operations for modernizing and improving the warehousing practices of the public administrator.

Ralph Boynton, a member of the task force, said the recommendations for improving the warehousing practices resulted from an evaluation of the county warehouse and a comparable operation at Bekins Van & Storage Co. in Redwood City.

Boynton and Tarshes said that Coroner-Public Administrater Paul B. Jensen is enthusiastic over the recommendations. He has reported they can be implemented without increasing the departmental budget, and will result in increased efficiency, safety and security.

Boynton said the task force is studying the possibility of recommending that the coroner-public administrator functions, presently at "five or six locations in the county," be consolidated.

Tarshes responded that a consolidation study is underway, stating that there will be a report quite soon and that the consolidation study is underway, stating that there will be a report quite soon, and that the consolidation recommendation will include the warehouse.

The coroner's office is in Canyon Hospital, west of Redwood City; the public administrator's office is in San Mateo, as are the lab and morgue, and the coroner's warehouse is located in San Carlos.

Rotary Is Offering Awards

The Rotary Club of Daly City is now accepting applications for the Rotary Foundation Undergraduate Scholarship Awards, according to Skyline College Dean of Students Jim Wyatt.

Applicants must be unmarried, between the age of 18 and 24, and have completed two or more years of study.

Interested students may contact Leon Scales, foundation chairman in the evening at 994-6478 or the club secretary Jim Wyatt, during the day at 355-7000, Ext. 314.

relative to maintaining a person, whether he is on parole or inside prison, according to San Francisco Parole Officer Pat Bolger.

The governor's 1976-77 budget for the Department of Corrections is $4,202,755 to provide 40 different skilled vocational programs for inmates.

Every skill from welding, machinery repair, sheet metal and carpentry to repair of electronic office machines is taught.

These skills are designed to help an ex-convict redirect his habits toward a more productive life, penal experts say.

Bolger notes there also is the "correctional industry," jobs inside prison, which are not connected to the governor's budget inasmuch as they are self-supporting.

The industry includes the manufacture of license plates and prison garb.

And then there is the "we need more prisons but don't build them in my community" faction of the general public, officials point out.

Like San Francisco Parole Officers Glenn Heransberger and Bolger, Helbush and Druhan say there is the human being who is repeatedly dedicated to a life of crime.

"Early in life, perhaps, this individual says, 'this is what I'm going to do' and becomes a criminal," Helbush says.

There also is the person who may not be the "Man of the Year" but one day faces a crisis and breaks the law while coping with it.

"We must weigh all these facts," Helbush says.

Certainly, probation investigations are not all the San Mateo County Probation Department's concerned with.

There are, besides the heavy caseloads the officers daily contend with, mental health programs, drug diversion investigations and supervision [illegible] and alternative programs to incarceration.

In the latter group, there are three major projects: Ellsworth House, Mustard Seed and the Des Moines project.

Mustard Seed is for female probationers, while the Des Moines project is a federally funded project aimed at releasing selected criminally charged persons back into the community under strict supervision. It was started in 1974.

Thousands of manhours are expended in public service projects, employment and vocational rehabilitation services, and the VIP Program (this program allows private citizens to assist in aiding persons on probation).

There are several other programs undertaken by the Probation Department covering narcotics and alcohol — all aimed at "redirecting" the criminally charged.

substantial votes of confidence by citizens in the March 2 elections.

Giammona and Teglia are the logical choices, for the city's top two elected posts.

Councilman McRobert "Mac" Stewart is a candidate in the June county supervisor's race, and William Schumacher (vice mayor last year), is an announced candidate for the Sixth District State Senate race.

Colma Mayor Fred Garbini was expected to continue his role as head of the five-member council for at least another year.

Richard R. Vallerga came in first in the elections, recording 88 votes, with Garbini second.

The election saw Ray J. Ottoboni, now under indictment for alleged voter fraud and conspiracy, along with his father, councilman Raymond Ottoboni, and his mother, Mae, defeated by a single vote.

It was not expected the senior Ottoboni would be selected for either the mayorship or vice mayor's post this year.

Affirmative Action Meet

A second affirmative action workshop will be held at Skyline College in San Bruno on March 13 at 1 p.m.

According to Linda West, Eleventh Congressional District Affirmative Action Coordinator, the second workshop has been scheduled "because of the importance of the new Democratic delegate selection rules."

"We want to make the utmost effort to provide an opportunity for every interested Democrat to participate in the affirmative action program," she explained.

— with profits supporting the university, of course.

Brincat is in the process of establishing a bank charter under the name of Bank of Magna Carta. When this happens the university will move to a Burlingame building across from Peninsula Hospital.

And since all banks need tellers, Brincat has applied to the California Board of Education to open a banking school at the South San Francisco building.

Brincat said when the facilities aren't being used for teaching law, qualified personnel, will teach banking.

It now costs a bank about $2,500 to train tellers, he said. He'll provide them trained personnel for free.

A prospective teller would be certified after 80 hours of instruction. After they are employed they may return for another 80 hours of instruction to obtain a diploma. They will delve into specific banking problems experienced on the job.

The board of education officials are visiting Brincat March 8 to consider his plan. He also hopes to obtain federal funding so the banking students won't have to pay tuition.

Brincat already has rows of tables set up adjacent to the law library where he plans to hold accounting seminars.

Before accountants can renew licenses they must update skills. They could do so at his school, he said.

Professors would be tax attorneys as well as Internal Revenue Service officials and classes would be held on weekends so as not to conflict with the law and banking instruction hours.

Somewhere in between all these plans, Brincat has invited Skyline College para-legal students and teachers to use facilities including the law library and a mock court and classroom, free of charge.

It's too early to tell if the Magna Carta law students are a success. Only one graduate has taken the American Bar Association examination after completing his juris doctor degree. That gives the school a 100 per cent record, Brincat notes with a smile.

This semester there are 36 students at the South San Francisco and 45 at the San Jose campus, all paying a $50-a-unit tuition.

Since the university is not yet accredited, students are limited to nine units a semester by the American Bar Association. Most law students at accredited universities take 15 or more units a semester.

More students, he said, will take the bar exam this June and Brincat has set his sights on a 90 per cent success record.

Brincat said he still has other plans for his law school including a clinic to help law graduates find employment and a legal service for the city's poor and minority persons with graduates providing legal advice.

He's also eyeing expansion to states other than Nevada, although that will take more time and more money, he admits.

With hundreds of applications for the fall semester at both campuses already on file, Magna Carta University is attracting more than just casual interest.

Meanwhile, Brincat spends most of the daylight hours at his desk signing papers, making deals and developing ideas.

If he finds the time, he said, he may even finish his own law degree.

Pacifica Wants Look at Beaches

The out-going Pacifica City Council wants the new council to give Proposition B, which sought a tax hike to maintain city beaches, another try.

Pacifica voters rejected the 10-cent addition to the city's tax rate 2,711 to 3,920 on March 2.

Council members said Monday night that the additional tax is necessary if the city is to carry out plans for public acquisition, maintenence and development of its beaches.

"We did not give adequate information to the public," said Councilwoman Janice Fulford.

The council was criticized during the campaign for not providing voters with detailed information of the beaches, particularly San Pedro Beach, but acquisition may never occur.

County 'Job Faire' Set

By LIN DAY

There's no job guarantee, in times like these, but young and old job seekers are being offered a chance to learn what is available in jobs and careers in a "San Mateo County Employment Faire" from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. March 18 at the College of San Mateo.

More than 30 San Mateo industries and commercial firms will have representatives present to discuss possible careers and jobs with their companies. In a few cases, jobs may already be available.

The sessions are open to the public as well as to college students.

Possibly the best spin-off of the Faire, according to Elaine Burns, career resource technician with the Career Development Center at the college, is the possibility of learning what the potentials are in the field, and getting to meet the people involved.

"In one afternoon," she says, "you can accomplish as much as you would accomplish in several months of surveying the field in a job hunt."

Ursula Shepherd, placement officer, agrees. "You can really get the practical inside of what it takes to get the kind of job that a company represents," she said.

Hundreds are expected to drop in at the Faire to learn about changing jobs and careers, returning to retrain, to develop new and diversified skills, improve their skills or knowledge, and in other ways meet the demands of the job market, once they have first-hand knowledge of what those demands are.

Ms. Shepherd said that among those to be present will be community resource groups who have been directing workers to new jobs, to utilize their "know how" to explain to job seekers how the transition works.

The Faire, to be conducted in the south cafeteria at the College of San Mateo, will be informal, with a table for each firm participating and those interested in jobs or careers seeking out the one in which they are interested. An information booth will be placed at the entrance.

Consumer Action Sets Fund-Raiser

Wine and cheese and belly dancing, followed by a buffet dinner, is the program for a Consumer Action fund-raising event set for March 13 at the Burlingame Woman's Club.

Tickets or information may be had from Cecelia Leone, director of Consumer Action, at the group's headquarters, 1355 El Camino Real, Millbrae.

"We hope this event will give concerned people an opportunity to meet socially with others who share their interest in consumer action," she said.

"Consumer Action of San Mateo County has recovered over $18,214 in goods and services for county residents since opening its office in mid-October. This event is being held to seek community support for the organization's future."

Senior Lunches

Lunches for senior citizens in San Mateo County are served Monday through Friday at five locations.

Donations for these meals are 35 cents for persons aged 60 and older and $1.25 for those under 60.

Transportation can be arranged by contacting officials at the local lunch sites.

The meals are served at noon. Here are the lunch locations:

- St. Francis of Assisi Church, 1425 Bay Road, East Palo Alto.
- Fair Oaks Community Center, 2600 Middlefield Road, Redwood City.
- Martin Luther King Recreation Center, 725 Monte Diablo, San Mateo.
- Lincoln Recreation Center, 901 Brunswick St., Daly City.
- St. Paul's Methodist Church, 500 Miller Ave., South San Francisco.

Here is the menu for the week of March 8 to 12:

TUESDAY—cranberry juice, meatloaf, spinach, bean salad, mashed potatoes, pastry.

WEDNESDAY—grapefruit juice, steak, brussel sprouts, tomato soup, crackers, tator tots, pecan pie.

THURSDAY—orange juice, macaroni and cheese, lima beans, okra, bran muffin, strawberries.

All meals served with milk, coffee or tea.

ABAG Practices 'Shock' to Forum

A member of the Association of Bay Area Governments' Citizens Regional Forum told the San Mateo County Board of Supervisors forum members are shocked that no ABAG members have asked ABAG for an accounting of the funds it disperses to cities and counties.

Violet Gotelli of Pacifica, a member of the forum, made the statement after Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald reported that ABAG has dispensed $1.3 billion in federal funds during the past two years to nine Bay Area counties and city members of ABAG.

ABAG has not refused a grant, to his knowledge, the supervisor said, and no check was made as to how the funds were spent.

"It shocks us that the cities have not asked for an accounting," Mrs. Gotelli said.

She cited an example of the necessity for accounting. There was an instance, Mrs. Gotelli related, in which federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration funds were distributed to eight states for crime prevention programs. It subsequently was determined that the crime rates in those states increased from 5 to 10 per cent, she said.

Mrs. Gotelli also complained of the treatment the forum, which is required by the federal government as a condition of receiving federal funds, receives from ABAG.

She noted that ABAG is in the process of establishing an Environmental Management Task Force to develop an environmental plan for the Bay Area. No member of the Citizens Forum was included, she said.

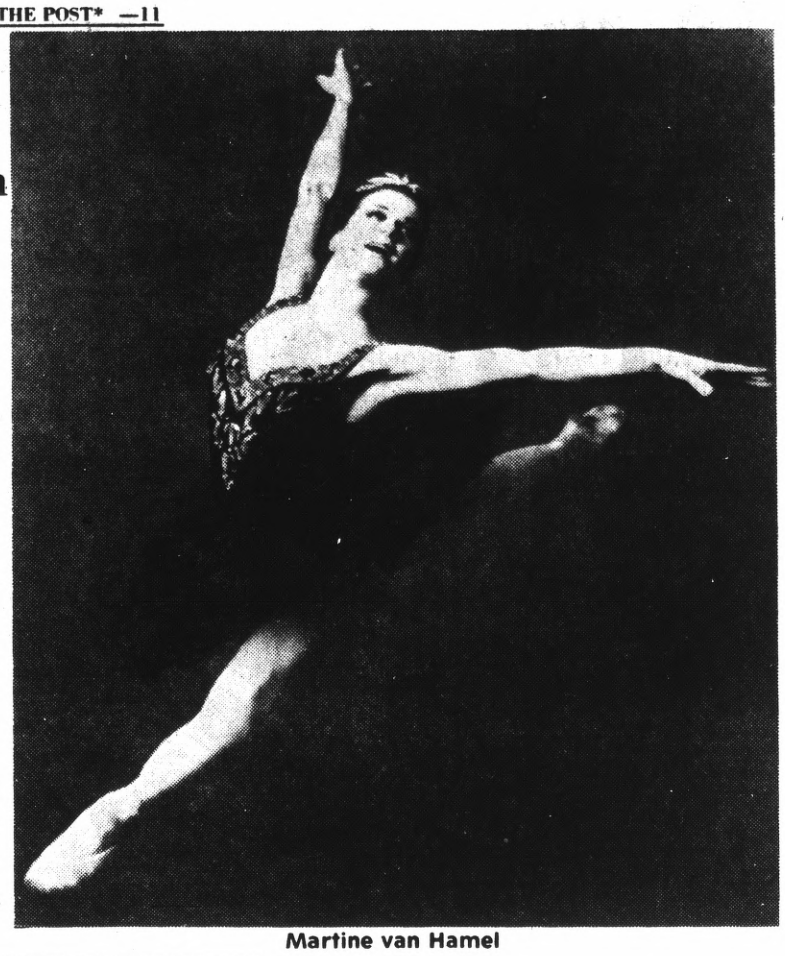
Tri-School Concert at Mercy High



Martine van Hamel

Mercy High School, Burlingame, will host a tri-school concert in the Convent Chapel of the Sisters of Mercy, 2300 Adeline Drive, at 8 p.m. March 14.

Mercy Burlingame Chorale and Madrigal Singers, Mercy San Francisco Glee Club, and Serra High School Band will participate in the concert.

Two featured works of the Mercy Burlingame singers, under the direction of Sister Suzanne, will be the "Missa Brevis" of Benjamin Britten and the "Four Psalms" of Colin Mawby. Phillip Garay, chairman of the Music Department of Serra High School, will direct the Serra Band in an arrangement of "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God," a "Trumpet Voluntary" by Henry Purcell, and three Palestrina Chorales. The Mercy San Francisco group will be heard in the second music of Vittoria, Palestrina, and Sister Suzanne. This group will be directed by Sister Jean Evans.

Airport Project Pacts Awarded

The Airports Commission has jawarded a contract for $19,412,491 to F. P. Lathrop Construction Co. of Emeryville to complete the North Terminal Building at San Francisco International Airport, it was announced by William J. Dwyer, Director of Airports.

The work will provide seven new frontal gates and some 600,000 square feet of enclosed space for building systems, tenants and the public.

All exterior and interior surfaces on the basement, first, second and third levels, sidewalk, canopy and roof will be constructed under the contract.

In addition, all public areas will be finished and supports for two pedestrian bridges to the Ground Transportation Center will be constructed.

Contract work includes relocating an electrical substation into the Central Terminal with upgrading miscellaneous courts, roadways and services included.

Architects for the project are the joint venture of John Carl Warnecke and Associates and Dreyfuss & Blackford.

Lathrop Construction will have 720 days to complete the contract following certification by the City Controller. Completion date for the North Terminal is scheduled for the fall of 1978.

ABT to Present Top Ballet Stars

The 'hottest' team in ballet today — Gelsey Kirkland and Mikhail Baryshnikov — will perform in this year's Flint Center schedule of American Ballet Theatre March 12 and 13.

Baryshnikov was the top ranked star of the Kirov Ballet of Russia when he left that company in 1974 to join the American Ballet Theatre.

Bay Area balletomanes have waited two years for his West Coast debut (his scheduled appearance last year was cancelled when he broke his leg).

Miss Kirkland was drafted by Baryshnikov to be his partner, and she left the New York City Ballet to join American Ballet Theatre especially for that reason. American-born, young and beautiful, she is also an extraordinary performer.

The three exciting performances at Flint Center include many great stars of A.B.T.: Tchaikovsky's beautiful "Swan Lake" will be presented March 12 at 8:30 p.m. with Martine van Hamel as Odette-Odile and Vladimir Gelvan as the Prince.

Miss van Hamel was a gold medal winner at Varna, Bulgaria, in 1966 — the same year Mikhail Baryshnikov won his gold medal. This is Gelvan's first year with A.B.T., and he joins old friends from the Kirov Ballet in Russia (Nureyev, Makarova and Baryshnikov preceded him).

Tickets for the Friday evening performance are already sold out. Good seats remain for both Saturday performances and are avalable at Flint Center Box Office, San Jose and Peninsula Box Offices, Fine Arts Box Office at Sherman Clay in S.F., B.A.S.S., Macy's and all major agencies. For information, call 246-1160.

Chocolate lovers, arise! And get ready to bake a sensational cake. Not only is this a delicious cake — rich and chocolatey with a chocolate-nut frosting — but it also has the added attraction of being so simple to make that you will have it in the oven in record time.

I tested this recipe on my fellow choir members at St. Andrew's Church and (if you will pardon a pun) they sang it's praises.

TEXAS SHEET CAKE

2 cubes margarine
1 cup water
4 tbsp. cocoa
2 cups all-purpose flour
2 cups sugar
½ tsp. salt
2 whole eggs
½ cup sour cream
1 tsp. baking soda

In a saucepan combine the margarine, water and cocoa. Bring to a boil and add to the flour, sugar and salt. Mix well.

In a small mixing bowl combine the eggs, sour cream and baking soda. Beat together and then stir into the cake batter. Mix well and pour into a greased 11x18x2-inch cookie sheet.

Bake at 375-degrees for 15 to 20 minutes.

While the cake is baking, make the frosting. You will find that this frosting is rather thin, but it is supposed to be, because you have to spread it over the hot cake and it would pull and tear the cake if it were of the usual frosting consistency.

FROSTING

1 Tbsp. margarine
4 Tbsp. cocoa
8 Tbsp. milk
1 box powdered sugar
1 tsp. vanilla
1 cup chopped nuts

In a small saucepan combine the margarine, cocoa and milk. Bring to a boil and add to the sugar and vanilla. Mix well and stir in the one cup chopped nuts. Spread over hot cake. Allow to cool and cut in squares.

Seniors Pool Talent

By JANET PARKER

Senior citizens in Pacifica believe they have something to offer local merchants. They ask little in return.

The city's Seniors in Action program is organizing a "talent pool," to serve employers of all kinds in the many different shopping areas.

The plan is simple and appears as if it will be productive.

A senior citizen works on a temporary basis for a merchant and negotiates with that merchant for a wage. The money the senior earns is funneled into the Seniors in Action program fund and all the city's seniors benefit.

Director Beverly Brice said she believes it's the only program of its kind in the county and possibly the state.

"This gives seniors a chance to participate again in the business world and, at the same time, raise funds for their program," Mrs. Brice said.

"Merchants immediately grasp the point," she said. "They realize we are talking about people with a useful working experience behind them."

Mrs. Brice said the talent pool developed from discussions with Chamber of Commerce Director Jim Gallagher.

Seniors in Action and the chamber were consulting on a discount program merchants are providing for senior citizens.

Both organizations realized that perhaps merchants could further help seniors and, at the same time, provide a service for themselves by employing "volunteer" seniors.

Mrs. Brice maintains a list of seniors interested in working.

Merchants may call Mrs. Brice to describe the work that needs to be done and she in turn, will, matchup a senior with that need.

The merchant and senior negotiate the wages to be paid and a check is delivered directly to Seniors in Action after the work is completed.

Although only 10 seniors have agreed to participate so far, Mrs. Brice said there are 650 active members of Seniors in Action. As word of the talent pool spreads, she expects many more senior citizens will be eager to share their talents and benefit from the senior's program.

Seniors with skills in retail sales, bookkeeping-maintenance, warehouse work, typing, shorthand and buying have volunteered to work for merchants.

Pacifica resident Dora Payne already has worked several hours for a hardware store owner and she made $90 for the Seniors in Action fund.

She said it was a "truly satisfying experience." She declined to say how many years it has been since she was regularly employed.

Her previous experience was in teaching. Retail sales is something new for her.

Her employer, Dick Pronovost, said she did "a bang-up job," and he plans to employ her again soon.

"For me, it's a great program," Pronovost said. Rather than calling a temporary employment agency to secure a part-time worker, he can call Mrs. Payne, who lives nearby and usually is available.

He said he couldn't afford to hire a full-time employe to supplement the part-time help of a high school student.

He had been working six days a week at his small store for a long time and when he learned of the talent pool, he knew it was ideal.

While Mrs. Payne supervised the store with the help of the high school student, Pronovost and his wife went on a four-day trip to the mountains — something they hadn't been able to do in a long time

Lame Duck Council Tells of Closed Session

By JANET PARKER

A last-minute move to avoid a possible violation of California's open meetings laws was made by the lame duck South San Francisco City Council Wednesday night.

The council in public session unexpectedly clarified the recent deletion of the city planner and director of finance positions from the 1976-77 budget after City Atty. John Noonan told them they could be in legal hot water.

Mayor Richard Battaglia said the decisions were made at the discretion of City Manager Ed Alario.

Battaglia said that in executive sessions last month the council went over positions that could be deleted from the budget, but "couldn't immediately reach agreement, so we left it at the discretion of the city manager."

The bombshell notices were delivered to City Planner David Hale and Director of Finance Stan Bara on Feb. 9, but were not publicly disclosed until the actions were reported in newspapers two weeks later.

A provision of Senate Bill 1, signed Sept. 23 by Governor Brown and effective Jan. 1 this year, requires a local legislative body to report at a "subsequent meeting any action taken, and the roll call vote thereof, to appoint, employ or dismiss a public employe arising out of an executive session."

Until Wednesday night, there was no public discussion by the council while comments by council members, Mayor Battaglia and Alario led residents to believe the staff deletions were made by the council as a cost-cutting measure.

Alario had said earlier, "We had to see what positions could actually be done away with having the least adverse effect on city services."

And Councilman Terry Mirri had said, "The overall intent is the reduction of bureaucracy, which is something citizens have been asking for."

Battaglia said flatly that the council is in the best position to determine what personnel the city needs.

"We've been mulling this over for a period of months," Battaglia said.

When asked Wednesday afternoon if he was aware of the possible conflict, Noonan said he was not.

However, after researching the new amendments to the Ralph M. Brown Act, he agreed that a public roll call vote should have been taken if, indeed, the council did take specific executive session action.

He said, however, that the word "subsequent" in the law could mean at any time after the executive session — and Wednesday night was the council's last chance since a new council takes over Tuesday.

Noonan called Alario a few hours before the last meeting of the outgoing City Council and informed him that a public vote is a necessity by law.

Alario agreed with the attorney's ruling and said he would bring it up with council that night.

Council members, however, told Noonan at the City Council meeting that it was Alario all along who had made the budget deletions. The council never voted to send the letters to Bara and Hale, Battaglia said.

When the decisions were made and who made them remains unclear.

And if the council didn't take specific actions to delete positions from the budget, did they give Alario a blanket order to cut costs at his own discretion?

Alario and Battaglia have been adamant that the budget deletions were for economic reasons.

"David is still one of the most capable individuals I have seen and Stan has a financial mind second to none," Alario said in praise of the two top level city employes.

The deletion of the two positions, he said, would take $70,000 from the he 1976-77 budget, which Alario will be putting together in the next few months.

Section 54957 of the California Government Code says a legislative body "can consider the appointment, employment or dismissal or can hear complaints or charges concerning an employe in executive session."

Alario said originally he had asked the council to meet with him behind closed doors to discuss dismissing the employes immediately as a money-saving measure.

Legal Aid For Seniors

Legal services for senior citizens will be provided by the Legal Aid Society of San Mateo County, in a new program set up by the Area Agency on Aging.

Financed by a federal project grant of $36,974, the new program will provide direct legal services by trained specialist attorneys and paraprofessionals, at locations throughout the county.

Legal services advice will be available at places where senior citizens gather, such as senior housing projects, nursing and convalescent homes, information and referral offices and nutrition sites.

The Irish and Their One Meeting of the Year

For all the Irish (and their friends) this Friday night will provide an early opportunity to celebrate the life and faith of St. Patrick!

The Westlake Catholic Women and the Our Lady of Mercy Men's Club will co-sponsor a dance with midnight buffet in celebration of the life of the good saint. Entitled "Irish Mist," the fun will begin at 9 in the parish hall. Dancing will be to the music of "The Contrasts" and there will be live entertainment during the evening.

Mrs. John Sullivan and James Garvey are the cochairmen. Tickets are available for only $5 per couple.

Mrs. Rhena Gonzalez, exuberant over the rapidly approaching opening date of the Child Care Center being operated by the Daly City Community for Children's Services and her husband's selection to be the COCLA representative within the San Francisco Archdiocese, telephoned to say that now is the time for all mothers who are working or in job training programs to call and arrange to register their children in the new child care center.

The center, located at 350 Lowell St., will be opening soon and Mrs. Gonzalez is hard at work screening applications for registration. To assure space for your child, call Mrs. Gonzalez any week day between 8:30 a.m. and 5 p.m., 648-2244.

THE THIRD, and final segment of the series, "Sacraments: Magic or Mystery" will e given on Monday evening at 8 p.m. in the St. Andrew's Community Center, 1571 Southgate Ave.

Father Kenan Osborn, president of the Franciscan School of Theology at Berkeley, will be the speaker.

The next series at the St. Andrews Church, "Liberty and Justice for All" will begin at Thursday, March 18, at 8 p.m. with Father Eugene Boyle, currently the pastor of St. Ann's Chapel, the Newman Center for Stanford University, in Palo Alto.

The theme of this series will revolve around the Catholic community's response to the Bicentennial and Father Boyle will be keynoting the series with a talk on social justice. Father Boyle was formerly the co-chairman of the San Francisco Conference on Religion and Race, the chairman of the Archdiocesan Social Justice Commission and was once a candidate for the State Assembly.

The remaining three sessions will be moderated by the Rev. Mr. Thomas Rolle, deacon at St. Andrew's.

Monday will be the last day to make reservations for the Balboa High School reunion being planned by the classes of Spring and Fall '55.

Tickets, costing $15 per person, may be reserved by calling Mrs. Marlienne Dahl McMillan, 341-5752.

The dinner-dance will be held in the South San Francisco Elk's Club April 24.

In other news from the Alumni Association's President Frank Galo notes that there will be a meeting of the association's board of directors on Thursday, March 18. Dr. Lee Dolson, a member of the San Francisco Board of Education and former faculty member at Balboa will be the special guest. Susan Quindag and Debbie Martini will be in charge of refreshments. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

THE DALY CITY Civic Ballet, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, will present its annual spring fashion show and luncheon at the Franciscan Mobile Country Club on Saturday, April 3, according to Mrs. Robert Brizuela, chairwoman.

The Fashion of Westlake will present sports wear as well as more formal street wear during the luncheon gathering.

Mr. Vincent Rigoni is the co-chairman and Mrs. Joseph Abruzzo, 992-5356, is the reservations chairman. The Daly City Civic Ballet is under the direction of Diane Roberts.

THERE IS TIME to purchase tickets to the Bingo Lasagne luncheon to be held on Wednesday of next week in the Westlake Community Center meeting room.

The Mary's Help Hospital Guild is the sponsoring organization and the event is designed to raise money for the purchase of material necessary for the constructionof items to be sold at the guild's holiday season boutique.

Mrs. Lillian Bertucci, 185 "B" Street in Colma is accepting checks for $4 per persons. The luncheon will begin at 12:30 p.m. Champagne will be sold from 11:30 a.m. on to the time lunch is served.

LOOKING FOR DONATIONS of books and records are the members of the Daly City Friends of the Library who will be sponsoring the annual Spring Book Fair on May 14 and 15 in the Westlake Mall.

Contributions may be left at any of the library's branches, according to the fair chairwoman, Mrs. Alvin Schwarzbach.

WHILE ON THE subject of donations, the Friends Outside, Bay Area Chapter, is seeking used pots and pans to be used to help needy families of men and women in prison set up housekeeping.

To make a donation contact the Friends Outside office, 863-1500.

IF YOU HAVE BEEN intrigued by the lovely sounds of "a Moment of Peace" heard each Sunday morning on KSFO radio you may wish to take advantage of the opportunity to hear a program of bell choir music being presented this Friday evening.

The Harborlighters of Lakeside Presbyterian Church have arranged to have the young musicians of the Lakeside Presbyterian Church Bell choir perform for their dinner meeting which will begin at 6:30 p.m. in the social hall. In addition to the selections which they perform on the tape heard over KSFO, the choir will play music appropriate for the Lenten season.

The Irish are celebrating in San Mateo County March 17 with the annual St. Patrick's luncheon at the San Mateo Elks Club scheduled to start at 11:30 a.m. for "attitude adjustment" exercises and a feast of Corned Beef and Cabbage scheduled to be served at 12:30 p.m.

The club can only serve 500 diners, so early ticket buying is recommended, according to Michael C. "Mike" McQueen, one of the coordinators of the annual event.

Tickets are available in most towns in the county, including in South San Francisco from Joe O'Brien at Barclay's Bank.

Guest of honor will be "Irish Jack" Jim McLaughlin, Belmont city clerk, and a nationally known poet and an outstanding humanitarian.

This being election year, every candidate from dog catcher to president of the United States will either show up, send a telegram or phone in. Every Superior Court and Municipal Court judge or candidate thereof has bought tickets.

Women are invited. Feminine entertainers include the famed Charpin Sisters with a series of Irish Jigs and Reels.

Tickets are $5 each, which includes the whole shebang, except for those who may wish to participate in the attitude adjustment period on their own.

Art Devoy, San Carlos, is president of the club for 1976 and this is the only and only meeting of the year. Richard Finn, 1941 Farrell St., San Mateo (341-7434), is ticket chairman. Others assisting in the program are Jim O'Halloran, Jim Altier, Gil O'Shaughnessy and Charles Crotty.

Le Pacini

As this is written, the final disposition of such things as spring training and the baseball reserve clause are still twisting in the wind, as we believe some infamous person once said in the famous Watergate hearings.

So, as we sit here waiting for the real action to begin, we ruminate over such matters as why the most educated, professional athletes since the beginning of time don't yet seem to understand some of the basic aspects of capitalism, the free enterprise system.

Not that we thoroughly understand all such things, but we do dig some of the cliches, such as payment is based on what the traffic will bear.

We have actually read and heard about athletes who have said they wouldn't pay what it costs to see many professionaly athletic events, because it is too expensive, especially for families.

Yet they blithely expect people with only a fraction of their incomes to pay such prices to see them play. Many of them just don't seem to realize that they are gradually pricing teams, and in some cases whole leagues, out of business; nor do they seem to understand that in so doing, they will soon be putting themselves out of business.

Of course, the players can't be blamed exclusively, because the owners started the "spoil" system with huge payoffs that have often amounted to bribes. So it is a matter of greed on both sides.

We also don't understand why professional athletes don't understand that yes, they are exploited but that we are all exploited, in a sense. At least those of us who work for regular salaries. And, as bosses know, they are often exploitd by unions.

SOME athletes have gone so far as to declare themselves no better than slaves. In many cases, that has been true.

But there is a difference between voluntary servitude and involuntary servitude. We have not heard of one case of an athlete being dragged out of bed in the middle of the night, shackled, and transported secretly across country to play in a dread place such as Buffalo for nothing more than bread and water and 30 lashes for failing to comply to the rules of the team.

Some high-priced athletes have argued the parallel of show business (that is, that entertainment which is done on stage and screen as opposed to courts and fields) to explain just how underpaid they are.

"Why, Sinatra can make more in one week in Vegas than the greatest athlete in his sport can usually make in a year," is the familiar comparison.

Again, supply and demand, and what the traffic will bear. The point is that Sinatra can make that much because he can DRAW that much. If he wasn't worth it to the Vegas bosses monetarily, he wouldn't get it, no matter how pretty he sings.

But that is a bad parallel, anyway, because we will bet that the average professional athlete makes a better average yearly salary than the average entertainer. For every Sinatra, There are hundreds, even thousands, of musicians and actors working in sleazy clubs, year after year, for scale.

We once heard a statistic that startled us. It was said that something like 90 per cent of Actor's Equity people in San Francisco are out of work, and that the percentage in Southern California, where the competition is stiffer, is even greater.

SPEAKING of jackasses, we attended a donkey basketball game at Terra Nova High School recently, not so much to see whether the faculty would beat the students or to watch people look foolish attempting to straddle the stubborn little animals, nor even to observe otherwise sensible people attempting to maim themselves, but more to further investigate a phenomenon that has been a mystery to us for years.

We have seen several of these fiascos and were once even induced to participate in a donkey baseball game, an event which was unhappily memorialized by way of a Polaroid camera wielded by a newsman named Larry Shannon, a saddist who now works, appropriately, for the New York Times.

There we are, attempting to leap on the donkey in one jump from the rear, like Hopalong Cassidy used to do, but hitting our target with only one twisted leg. It was what you'd call, in polite society, a half-donkey attempt.

But we disgress. The point is that we have witnessed several athletic events participated in by donkeys on both fields and gymnasiums, and we have never known one donkey to be less than totally housebroken, inside or out.

We don't know whether to report their handlers to the Humane Society or applaud the donkeys' courage and stamina.

MISCELLANY

WE WOULD like to see all pro drafting include a regional draft round, like the one the NBA used to concur in, in order to get more local flavor into teams. It might help boost attendance.

Hank Luisetti revolutionized basketball offense with the one-handed shot, which he pumped up off his ear and running, usually just behind the foul line. The native San Franciscan, in other words, "invented" a shooting technique which still lives.

(Actually, the shot was being used sporadically before Luisetti came along, but he was the first to perfect it and use it effectively, rather than as a freak show-off shot.)

It is significant that Bill Russell, another San Franciscan transplaned from Oakland, revolutionized defensive basketball first at USF and later with the Boston Celtics. Among other things, he "invented" a now officially recongized NBA statistic — the blocked shot.

And still, when people talk basketball, they talk of it as the game of the Midwest.

Even the East Coast, specifically with the outside asphalt schoolyard courts of New York serving as a breeding ground for perhaps more great players than any area of the country, has a better claim to the title of basketball center of the universe.

We are often asked which of our columns has drawn the most response, positive or negative. They are generally the ones you wouldn't expect.

One of or most memorable was the one in which we put the knock on a particularly rude and unfeeling usherette at Candlestick.

Just the week before, we had devoted an entire column to the efficiency and character of the Candlestick usherettes and are still waiting for the first letter of gratitude from an usherette.

Yet, when we wrote these few paragraphs of a negative nature about ONE usherette — which we thought was only fair reporting — we received some interesting responses, none of them nice.

One usherette, a former friend of the family's, is still not, to our knowledge, speaking to us. The husband of the usherette to whom we referred — not by name, but by her section of responsibility — threatened to sue us and punch us in the nose simultaneously.

He reported that he had asked his wife about the incident and that she had totally denied it, despite the fact that we had a witness and she did not. But he knew she was telling the truth, he said, "because she goes to church every Sunday."

Our reply to him was that there isn't a politician in America who doesn't go to church. And then we rested our case.

Regent Spikes Downed

A strong mile relay performance gave Crestmoor High's track team a close win over defending Central Coast Section champion Serramonte Friday in a non-league dual meet.

The final score was 70½-65½.

In other non-league meets Carlmont beat San Mateo 90-46 and Aragon defeated Terra Nova 80-55.

Crestmoor's mile relay team of Craig Devolder, Steve Pierce, Ellis Tatum and Don Freeman saved the day for the Falcons. On the third leg Tatum, a transfer student from Gary, Ind., took a strong lead and the Falcons finsihed in 3:29.7.

Tom Bobertz, latest in a long line of fine Serramonte hurdlers, broke the Crestmoor stadium record in the highs, clocking 14.2. It was the second time in a week he'd run that time.

Paul Mello won both distance races for Crestmoor, and teammate Kevin Wynkoop won the weight events. Serramonte's Lorens Lebhertz won the low hurdles, triple jump and pole vault. Regent sprint specialist Ken Terrell ran the 220 in 22.9.

Carlmont set two meet records against San Mateo. St. Ignatius was to have competed as well, but didn't make it.

Gordon Bliss set a record in the low hurdles, clocking 39.9, and the Scots' quarter relay team finished in a record time of 44.5. Rich Montero won three events for the Scots, and ran on the record-setting relay team.

The best performance of the day was Herman Henry's 10.9 finish in a 112-yard dash (runners had started at the wrong line). San Mateo's Craig Corey, a double winner, ran a fine mile in 4:31.9.

Mike Candau and Bob Dunn paced the Scots with 10 and six points, respectively, while Tom Feeney added six to the OLM cause.

Seventh Grade Eastern playoffs — St. Thomas More held off a late St. Andrews rally to defeat the Scots, 37-32. Charlie Comer dazzled the Scots with 20 points, adding seven steals and four assists to his offensive output. Mark Powers added nine for the winners, while Greg Huskins and Ed Bruno tallied eight apiece for the Scots.

Youth Soccer League

Westlaker Minutemen 4 Viking Seal 1 — In their first game in seven a side competition, the Westlaker first and second grades proved a well-coached side with tallies from Vidosh, Buckley and Salvemini.

Westlaker Juventus 5 Olympic Club 0 — Westlakers under 12 team clinched second place in an effective passing game. Jim Dekalceita, left winger, scored a hat trick, and was the first in the club's history to perform this feat. Pat Hensley converted a penalty, and Joe Greaish, normally a goalie made the last tally. Only great goal keeping by the Olympics goalie prevented a larger defeat for his club. Mike Lenzini, Dave Barrett and Danny Kins showed great improvement in their play.

CYSA Coaches Cup— under 10's, Westlake Spartans 0 Rovers 1 — Despite attacking superiority the Westlake Spartans could not overcome the Rovers stubborn four man defense in a typical cup game.

Westlake Cheetahs 4 West Sunset 1 — Mark Lenzini scored after the game was only minutes old. He then added a second tally. Greg Bachli, left winger, made it 3 to 0 with his first score of the season. West Sunset before half time replied with its only goal. Tony DiMaggio added a fourth for the Cheetahs, as they put tremendous offensive pressure on West Sunset in the final 15 minutes. A great team effort by the ever improving Cheetahs. Rich Espinoza, goalie and Danny Brown, right winger, played their best game to-date.

Sportsman To Teach Fly-tying

Larry Green, master angler and Northwest Editor of Field & Stream Magazine, is teaching at the Skyline College Community Services offering, "The Art of Tying the Artificial Fly."

The course, which has now been extended from 5 to 10 weeks, will begin March 16 at 7 p.m. at the Skyline College cafeteria in Building 2. The series fee is $35.

Green will teach how to tie replicas of most aquatic insects - dry flies, wet flies, streamer flies, deer hair bugs and special patterns developed primarily for California's fly fisherman.

Participants who don t have fly tying tools and material will have an opportunity to purchase everything they need on the first night of class at a special low, school group cost.

Course reservation forms can be found on Community Service brochures which are available from libraries in north San Mateo County. Interested persons may also register at the Main Theater Box Office on campus between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. weekdays. For additional information call 355-7000, extension 231.

Colt Hurler One-Hits Dons

In other non-league prep games Lowell blanked Mills 2-0, Half Moon Bay topped Hillsdale 6-2, Capuchino beat South San Francisco 4-2, Serra edged Westmoor 5-4 in eight innings, Cubberly defeated San Mateo 9-5 and Serramonte bested Mission of San Francisco 6-3.

Mills collected 10 hits against Lowell, but couldn't push a run across.

Two Half Moon Bay hurlers combined for a one-hitter against Hillsdale. Grant Campbell went five innings and got the win, and Doug Bray finished up.

Cap broke a 2-2 tie with SSF in the fifth. Kevin Cronin drove in one run with a single, and another run scored on an error.

Serra edged Westmoor in the bottom of the eighth when Frank Fano walked, went to second and third on passed balls and came home after the Westmoor catcher had dropped a third strike and thrown wildly to first base.

Sophomore Todd Allen got three hits and drove in two runs for San Mateo in the loss to Cubberley.

Nuclear Initiative Seminar

In June Californians will vote on the Nuclear Safeguards Initiative giving elected representatives the responsibility for deciding on the safety and risks of nuclear power plants.

The outcome of that election will have a decisive effect on the future of nuclear power in California, the nation and the world.

The students of Serramonte High School's Community Environmental Education Program believe that the Nuclear Safeguards Initiative is the most important decision Californians will make this decade.

Students have been reading about nuclear power plant construction, principles of nuclear fission, safety systems within the plants, waste storage problems and alternative energy systems.

The students have been preparing for a nuclear symposium they are presenting for the community's benefit at 8 p.m. March 30 at Serramonte High School, Daly City.

Speakers for the evening include civil engineer, Joel Rosenburg; Katherine Pering, representing Project Survival; and Dr. William Brunot, representing "Citizens for Jobs and Energy" for the Pacific Gas and Electric Co.

The Serramonte students wish to provide the means for educating the public to the risks and advantages of nuclear energy. They hope to attract a large crowd of prospective voters from all over the Bay Area. The symposium is free and open to the public. For further information contact: Abe Evenich or Roger Campos at 992-9555, ext. 39.

Performing — Pianist Sylvia Kamen, San Mateo artist-in-residence, will perform at 3 p.m. March 14 at St. Andrew's Community Center in Daly City.

Pianist To Present St. Andrews Concert

After a well-received inaugural program last month, St. Andrew's Community Concerts Series will present its next concert at 3 p.m., March 14, at St. Andrew's Community Center on the corner of Southgate and Sullivan in Daly City.

Pianist Sylvia Kamen, San Mateo artist-in-residence and a member of the reperatory company of the San Mateo County Chamber Music Society, will play selections by Leplin, Brahms, Chopin and Gershwin. The selections by Emanuel Leplin are a tribute to the San Mateo composer-in-residence.

Sharing the program with Ms. Kamen will be soprano JoAnn Georgostathis, a graduate of S.F.S.U. who has performed with the Highland Park Symphony in L.A. and the Mozart Festival in Alameda.

Ms. Georgostathis will sing the "Vissi d'Arte" from "Tosca," as well as French and Italian art songs.

Luncheon Scheduled

The Daly City Civic Ballet, sponsored by the Daly City Recreation Department, is planning its annual Spring fashion show and luncheon April 3 at the Franciscan Mobile Country Club.

Chairman Mrs. Robert Brizuela and co-chairman Mrs. Vincent Rigoni are planning to show casual and dressy outfits from "The Fashion of Westlake."

Hiring Policies Studied

Bay Area employers were urged last week to re-examine hiring policies toward a special silent minority group — workers in the 40-64 age range.

The appeal was issued by a local state executive Milton Quadros, regional administrator here of the Employment Development Department (EDD), in advance of national "Employ The Older Worker Week" March 8-12.

"Hiring and keeping older workers on the payroll is good, sound business policy," Quadros said. "They've been proven one of the best employee groups of all in terms of attendance, judgment, resourcefulness, safety, loyalty and job stability," he added.

Roughly one-fifth of the Bay Area's population is in the 40-64 age bracket, Quadros said. If that proportion were applied to the six-county "core" Bay Area labor force of about 2.1 million, it would mean that about 400,000 workers here qualify as "older" workers, he noted.

"This is a huge reservoir of experience, filled with qualified workers who need far less training than others, and who have a far greater incentive to stay with their employers through thick and thin," Quadros said.

Deadline for news copy intended for publication in this section is 5 p.m., each Thursday.

Post Office Auction Is Scheduled

The San Francisco Post Office will hold their next public auction March 18 in Polk Hall, in the Civic Auditorium.

Postmaster Lim P. Lee said bidding will start at 8:30 a.m. for 900 lots — about 35,000 items — of unclaimed merchandise.

A lot could be anything from an electric organ or some chess boards to a banjo and case or a commode with seat.

Coin collectors may be interested in three lots of 1975 Republic of Panama proof sets and one each from British Virgin Islands and Trinidad and Tobago.

The 900 lots of merchandise will be on display for public viewing in Polk Hall the day before the auction, from 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

Board Can Wait On Big Chopper

The San Mateo County Board of Supervisors has made no commitment on the recommendation of Sheriff John R. McDonald Jr. that the board consider the acquisition of a five-place turbine powered helicopter in the coming fiscal year.

Supervisor James V. Fitzgerald reminded the sheriff Tuesday that the board is holding back on spending.

Board chairman William H. Royer commented, "We'll be considering it at budget time."

McDonald, in submitting a report on the activities of his office's aerial patrol unit during the past year, proposed the acquisition of the larger, turbine powered helicopter for safety reasons, to provide additional aerial patrol operations and to permit rescue and fire fighting services in remote areas.

The Sheriff's Office presently operates two piston driven helicopters. The helicopters hold only a pilot and observer and cannot be used for rescues, McDonald noted.

'Y' Looks for Financial Help

The annual Peninsula YMCA fund-raising campaign, currently underway, has named Mrs. Kathryn Crosby as honorary chairperson.

Mrs. Crosby, of Hillsborough, is the host of a daily television show on KPIX, and appears frequently with her husband Bing on national television.

She said the Y's current drive hopes to raise a minimum of $18,000 to help continue the Y's broad programs for all ages.

Mrs. Lynn Miller, general chairperson of the campaign, explains that the current drive is not a "door-to-door" effort but is aimed at those who have made use of the Y's facilities through the years, or who have shown an interest in activities offered by the Y.

Mrs. Miller said it is hoped most of the donations will come from family groups currently using the facilities and programs of the local Y. The campaign runs until March 18 and will not be extended beyond that date.

Mrs. Crosby said the Peninsula Y switched three years ago from a uni-focus program dealing only with high school youth to a multi-dimensional organization dealing with family programs for elementary school children and cardio-vascular fitness programs for all members of the family, in addition to the needs of high school youth.

Today the Y is concerned with developing the interpersonal skills of people, helping them to learn to be effective members of groups, and works to increase their ability to be aware of the feelings of others. It hopes to develop inner strengths and to help people increase self-confidence and feelings of self worth, it was noted.

Among the programs being offered by the "Y" are the Y-Indian Guides, a father and son program aimed at kindergarten through the second grade. The program is based on Indian lore and attempts to develop better understanding between father and son.

The Peninsula Y is located at 240 West El Camino Real, San Mateo, and serves the cities of San Mateo, Foster City, Burlingame, Hillsborough, Millbrae, San Bruno, South San Francisco and Pacifica.

Quality in Sweets And Ice Cream

Swensen's Ice Cream, with several locations throughout the Bay Area, is a name that stands for quality in sweets and ice cream. And Swensen's Ice Cream Shoppe in Tanforan Park's Garden restaurant complex, San Bruno, is proving it every day of the week. Besides over 40 different flavors of top quality ice cream, Swensen's offers sodas, floats, banana splits, and other sweettooth pleasers. Needless to say, this is a great dessert stop after enjoying a meal or snack at one of the other Garden restaurants . . . Many restaurant kitchens close about 10 p.m. on weekends, but not at Sirloin & Brew Unlimited in Belmont. The popular restaurant remains open until midnight every Friday and Saturday night. Those late-evening hunger pangs for a good steak, as well as wine, beer or sangria (bottles of the beverages are included with dinner) can be answered. A Lenten suggestion is Louisiana Red Snapper cooked in butter. The $4.25 price includes crisp salad, backed potato and wine or sangria . . . St. Patrick's Day will be a festive occasion at The Van's, in Belmont. Co-owners Loring DeMartini and Ron Rosenberg will feature a corned beef feast ($3.45) through both lunch and dinner. As with most of the celebrations here, the historic bar should be SRO.

Damato's Shirt Tail Cocktail Hour Show

If you go to Damato's Shirt Tail restaurant, in Palo Alto, after work for one of their Jumbo Cocktails, George "Mr. Musicman" Miller, the man with the wild, polka dot shirts, holds forth daily at the organ bar during cocktail hours(5 to 7 p.m.). George plays trumpet, sings and plays easy-listening, relaxing mood music for all who stop in. Chef Ben Thompson shoots the works with complimentary hot and cold hors d'oeuvres, and hefty drinks (1½ ounce), a trademark of the Ski Lodge lounge with its glowing fireplace, are poured by bar fizzer Charles Sciuto and his colleagues. Don't forget the Early Evening Dinner Specials ($3.95) served from 4 to 7 p.m. . . . Many restaurants and clubs have "Happy Hours," but one of the "happiest" is to be found at Scotty Campbell's, where the "hour" is late evening till closing, 365 nights a year. Specializing in prime beef, seafood and fowl . . . Vince's Italian and Seafood restaurant continues to lead the Peninsula parade for seafood and Italian dishes. Whether your choice is luncheon, dinner or cocktails, Vince's is the answer . . . Among celebrities seen dining at Lehr's Greenhouse Garden restaurant in San Francisco last week were vocal star Patti Smith and oil heir J. Paul Getty III.

Pardini's Sunday Champagne Brunch

Beginning Sunday, March 14, Pardini's Garden Grotto, in downtown Millbrae, will feature a Champagne Brunch every Sunday from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Owner Gene Pardini says dining will be both indoors and on the outside patio (weather permitting). Egg dishes, regular menu items and a fruit and salad bar will be included. Eggs Benedict will be a house specialty . . . After bringing quality cuisine to San Mateo with their thriving Tino's on El Camino Real, a logical move for the Costantino brothers was to find another Peninsula location. And this they did — Tino's of San Carlos. You owe it to yourself to try their Chef Rosario's (veal scallopines sauted with mushrooms and sherry wine) or any one of the fish, beef or chicken specialties. . . . House of Lim rates a must for those seeking an outstanding menu of both Cantonese and American cuisine. Luncheon and dinner are served in a budget price range. Pacifica Chief Wants New Laws

Pacifica Police Chief Mel Nelson has joined the growing list of authorities in San Mateo County advocating new legislation to alleviate the possibility of violent-prone, mentally insane persons from being prematurely released into communities.

But Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, declared in an interview Wednesday, "You don't need new law, you need money — but that's a tough nut to crack today."

Nelson, in a recent letter to the County Board of Supervisors, cited his concerns "for the safety of the residents of Pacifica."

Although posing no specific suggestions, Nelson said that he would "actively support any reasonable legislation that will immediately halt the release from mental institutions of those individuals having recent violent-prone history."

The chief said that two of four homicides in Pacifica committed last year were by persons who had been deemed as incompetent but released to the community and treated as outpatients through chemotherapy.

"Chemotherapy is effective, but when there are no controls mental patients very often tend to cause their prescribed drug intake and hence cause problems for society — very often violent problems," Nelson said.

Several officials quoted in a two-part series on the subject in The Times this week also called for possible legislation.

But Arnett said, "I don't know how you design a foolproof system with a risky type of system like mental health.

"Those who are seeking changes in the law would do nothing but salve their consciences while not facing the real issue, funding for community locked facilities," Arnett said.

He also asserted that short-term facilities are needed in San Mateo County "and all over the state.

"The Lanterman-Petris-Short Act (the state law governing mental health) said many years ago that we (the state) are going to provide community care, and close down state hospitals.

"But the state has not funded to match the promise by any means. Consequently, we still carry out the law and release people from state hospitals, and many of them return to the community where we have difficulty because of lacking facilities.

"There is no law which can be passed to force persons to take medication unless they are institutionalized and closely watched."

Arnett added that more community staffing could allow visitations to those released to the community but not committed to an institution

SSF City Council Defends Decision

A resolution to help out developer Tom Callan with the cost of extending a roadway through a projected shopping center site was defended this week by the South San Francisco City Council.

The council had decided in a study session last month that the city would contribute $123,240 to extend Gellert Boulevard between Westborough Boulevard and Rowntree Way.

Callan's portion of the project is $1,317,774.

Council members said this week their decision to participate in the project was based on Callan's intention to eventually place at least one major chain store in that area and on the need for a major thoroughfare in that area of the city.

Resident Douglas Butler complained that Callan would build the road whether or not the city participates and that the usual procedure is for a developer to put in all his own improvements, including roads.

"The issue is whether we should use public dole for private development," Butler said.

Deborah Carson, president of the Westpark Homeowners Association, said residents in the Gellert area are asking many questions about the council's decision to help out Callan, who already had developed most of the city's Westborough area.

"There's a hard-core feeling this city shouldn't be doing anything to benefit Mr. Callan," said Mrs. Carson. "He has benefited enough from that part of the city."

Many residents, she said, just don't understand why the council is getting involved.

Council members said the questions were answered during the previous study session, suggesting that interested persons review the tapes of that meeting.

Among the reasons cited by Councilman Frank Mammini was the fact that extension of Gellert Boulevard as a main thoroughfare has been in the city's master plan for many years.

Since the city has projected a main road in that area anyway, it is sensible for the city to participate with Callan now, he said.

He also pointed out that the $123,240 is contained in the city's capital improvements budget and can be e used for no other purpose than street and roadway improvements.

"Nobody has recognized the fact that for a mere $123,240 a man comes along and is willing to gamble nearly $1 million on a thoroughfare," Mammini said.

Other council members, however, were less certain.

Mayor Richard Battaglia argued that the amount, though smaller than Callan's share, still must come from the taxpayers.

Callan has said he hopes to reach agreement with K-Mart department store chain to place a store in his proposed shopping center.

Councilman Terry Mirri said there's no assurance the K-Mart will ever become a reality.

The city expects to receive $99,000 a year in sales tax if a K-Mart is built.

Councilman Leo Padredi said he didn't want to dole out $123,240 with no assurance that the city will eventually benefit.

Councilman Mammini said his fellow councilmen were missing the point.

"We're not really doing the developer a favor. We are doing the city a favor by participating with the developer," Mammini said. The city's share represents 10 per cent of the total construction cost.

City Atty. John Noonan explained that the resolution authorizing participation safeguards the city's desires.

Callan will be reimbursed for the road expenses. If the city manager determines that Callan has not secured a major tenant for the shopping center after the road completion, the council may reconsider its agreement to contribute $123,240, Noonan said.

Study Is Offered

Pacific Intercultural Exchange is a worldwide non-profit corporation operating student exchange programs under State Department guidelines. Students between ages 15-18 may choose from a variety of programs including: language enrichment, summer homestays and six-month or one-year homestay/study programs in Europe, South America or Japan.

Students will live with families and attend school in the host country. Students may select from the following host countries: Brazil, Ecuador, France, Japan, Australia, The Netherlands, Paraguay, El Salvador and Venezuela.

Pacific Intercultural Exchange is also accepting applications from families who would like to host a student from South America or Europe. The program places high school students in average American homes for one month (summer), six months or one year, providing for them the opportunity to attend American high schools and to acquire a better understanding of our country and customs.

Drum, Bugle Corps to be at Fair

The national-award-winning White Rose Drum and Bugle Corps of York, Pa., will come to San Mateo this summer to open the San Mateo County Fair in the biggest single bicentennial exchange of its kind, it was learned today.

In York, a number of fund drives have been started to raise $29,000 to charter a jetliner to fly to San Mateo July 25. The San Mateo County Fair and Floral Fiesta opens July 26.

The result of the national bicentennial Sister City program in which the City of San Mateo pioneered, the York venture will top both the visit of San Mateo's mayor, Jane Baker, to York and a projected two-bus tour of York Easter week scheduled by Canada College.

York, which claims to be the first capitol of the United States of America, where the Articles of Confederation were signed, was today reported in a state of excitement over the trip here.

Already, according to Mrs. Jaimi Whorl, special assistant to York Mayor John Krout, 145 people have signified they want to come.

The adult corps, which last year won an international competition in Canada, is bringing wives and children along for a week-long visit.

York recently played host to Mayor Baker and a commission chairman during a three-day visit there. It also has agreed to host the visiting busloads of Peninsula citizens during Easter week.

The visit here, however, so far as is known, will be the biggest east-to-west migration during the bicentennial year.

Mayor Baker today issued a call to all residents and organizations of San Mateo to volunteer to join in welcome to the York visit.

She said she would like volunteers to entertain York families one day in their homes and to take individual families "wherever they would like to go to see the sights of San Francisco and the Bay area that day."

Special entertainment is being planned for Mayor Krout and his family and for Mr. and Mrs. Whorl, she said, adding she hopes it will match the wonderful reception given the San Mateans during their visit.

Mayor Baker — told by Mrs. Whorl that due to the fact so many wanted to come to San Mateo, York could hardly expect a local band to play host for a week, as they often do for visiting musical aggregations — immediately contacted local hotels to see what could be done.

She announced that a special rate has been obtained for the visitors.

Other special considerations are being sought at restaurants and other hotels to make the visitors welcome, she said.

She asked that all groups and individual homes who wish to join in being host to the York visitors get in touch immediately with Mrs. Claire Mack in the Recreation Department at San Mateo City Hall.

At the fair, she said, plans are to make Wednesday, July 28, San Mateo day, a special reception to York, and Thursday, July 29, to be community "York Day."

"I would like to see the 29th named 'Adopt a Yorker' for the day," she said.

The York visitation of its elite drum and bugle corps will be the largest by far of a number of visits since the sister city program began.
